Continuation of 5. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: independent claims 1 and 21 do not clearly recite any structural limitation to define the present invention over CHUTTER reference (US Pat. 6,454,795). When CHUTTER stent is collapsed, the opposing contact surfaces of members 16 come together and further deflection of members 16 will cause stresses at the contact surfaces by friction between the contact surfaces. Since there is no structural limitation in the independent claims to clearly distinguish the present invention over CHUTTER reference, independent claims 1 and 21 are unpatentable over CHUTTER reference.
